

NASTASSIA ARENDSE BIO

Nastassia Arendse is a Financial Journalist covering the most interesting topics in finance, markets, economics, and business. Every day, she sits down with the top names in finance and economics to analyse the essential stories for the business day ahead, bringing insight into global and local markets.

With a career spanning 16 years, Nastassia has established herself as a smart, compelling, and creative financial journalist. Her versatility is evident in her experience across various platforms, including print, audio, digital news, and TV. Her breadth of international experience, which has taken her across the globe, further underscores her adaptability and wide-ranging skills.

As a television anchor, she presented business shows on CNBC Africa, Business Day TV, SAfm Radio, Classic FM and SABC News.

As an experienced reporter, she has covered global commodity markets for the financial media company Moneyweb, writing features that track changes and trends worldwide in the commodity space. The beat focused on how prospects for the global economy, interest rates and currencies influence investor decisions concerning gold, precious metals, fixed income, and equities.